basketball

Revitalized Avalanche hardwood squad . . . emerged from basketball's doldrums late in the season . . . finished 1953-54 basketball campaign with a five win, eleven loss record . . . suffered through a ten game losing streak . . . then KSTC cagers cast off their basketball blues . . . won four of their last five encounters . . . averaged 75.8 points per game during this late season spurt . . . higher than the less than 69 point average for the larger portion of the campaign . . :

Captain Rog Cocivera . . . for the second straight year, the Avalanche's scoring giant . . . broke two KSTC individual scoring standards . . . had 31 ducats in the 71-70 triumph over East Stroudsburg . . . eclipsed by one, his own single game record of 31 set last season against West Chester . . . also shattered the single season record of Luke Ludwig . . . tallied 341 markers, an average of 21.3 points per game . . . Ludwig's old record, 334 points . . .

John Karo . . . ably assisted Cocivera in the scoring column as well as off the boards . . . consistently turned in class A performances . . . scored many important points for the Risleymen . . . proved to be a rough man under the board . . . continually grabbed rebounds from taller opponents . . .

Dale Fatzinger and Carl Diehl . . . a pair of scrappy sophomores who performed commendably . . . Fatzinger, a surprise starter last season as a freshman . . . continued his fine defensive play . . . Dale's 21 points all-important in the Cheyney opener . . . Diehl elevated to a starting position . . . scored in double figures on several occasions . . . shows great promise for future court campaigns . . .

Many newcomers appeared on K-town hardwood . . . Dick Moore, Ed Roth, and Lew Shollenberger outstanding . . . Moore, a freshman from Northampton . . . started in many of the Avalanche games . . . possesses a beautiful set shot which allows him to score despite his small size . . . Ed Roth . . . hails from Catasauqua . . . sure to make his mark as an Avalanche basketeer next season . . . Ed's 28 points instrumental in the 95-87 victory over Wilkes College . . . Lew Shollenberger made debut at mid-season . . . through consistent play soon won a starting position . . .

Paul Bernhardt . . . a reserve last season, again turned in excellent clutch performances . . . other Avalanche courtsters included Jim Brown, Dom Albanese, Bob Leidich, Al Koehler, George Grauer, Don Grimm, Bob Loose, Bob Wolff, Rocco Donofrio, and Stu Schenk . . .

Student managers Bill Carr, Al Erb, Knute Kurek, and Al Weiler . . . ably assisted Coach Walt Risley in his ninth season as KSTC basketball mentor . . .

Everything points toward an outstanding season next year . . . losses through graduation will be few . . . Coach Risley's starting five will remain in tact . . . host of capable reserves will return to battle for starting posts . . .

baseball

Spring . . . the familiar crack of the bat and thud of ball into catcher's mit . . . Maroon and Gold diamond heroes rounding into shape for good '53 season . . . early weak spot in staff of right-handed hurlers . . . sophomore Kermit Blank added needed pitching strength in starting and in relief roles . . .

The three Avalanche victories divided among Blank, Charlie Correnti, and Bob Loose . . . a trio of flingers on whom the hopes of the squad rested . . . deserve laurels for their efforts . . . Bob Coleman . . . particularly potent at the plate . . . his long distance drives accounting for many last-inning rallies . . . infield play sparkled with double plays and many infield gems . . . closing record revealed three wins, five defeats . . . four of these games heart-breaking one-run defeats . . .

1954 season . . . familiar faces again on the baseball scene . . . returning veterans do much to carry the team . . . batting mates John Karo and Kermit Blank, catcher and pitching ace, respectively . . . infielders Bob Coleman, Dale Fatzinger, Dick Jones, and Bob Wolfskill . . .

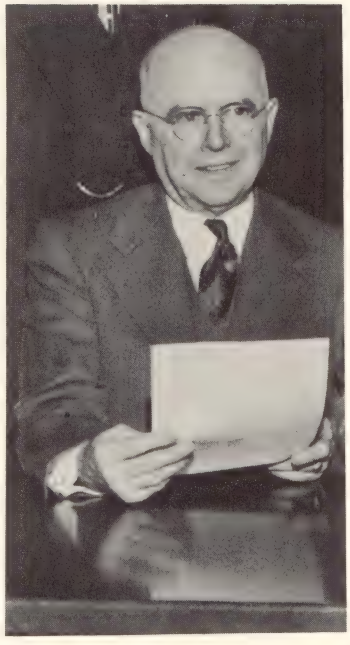
greeting from the general alumni association

The Alumni Association congratulates each and every member of the Class of 1954 upon the successful completion of the preparation for teaching and welcomes you into the honorable profession with its traditions and high ideals.

Life is the subject of my message to you. Thank God for the gift of life He gave to you. Of all life that of human beings is the most wonderful. The life of a person is in a continuous process of change for better or for worse. The teacher has a glorious opportunity and a grave responsibility in working with children -- guiding, changing, altering and modifying their lives. Children and young people may remain ignorant, greedy, and unreasonable or they may become educated, refined, and willing to cooperate for the common welfare, and willing to change with the times for living better and better lives.

The world is suffering not so much from the head ailment of ignorance, as from the heart ailment of greed or a complication of both head and heart ailment, resulting in the substitution of force for reason. Ignorance, greed and force are the enemies of democracy which can be conquered only by the education of the hand, the head and the heart. Social progress rests upon understanding, respect and sympathy for others, the components of happiness.



The philosophy of the school and of the teacher attempts to give a reasonable account of the attitude toward the serious business of life by suggesting something positive, dynamic, regulative and constructive. The teacher is a builder of good character, not a destroyer of it. Living has a personal and a social aspect. The teacher tries to harmonize the personal and the social aspects of life in fresh levels of social synthesis resulting in the desired hope, security and happiness.

Teachers, organize your work around what is good and solid of the old, let your school add and continue to add better procedures and better practices, new services that are valuable to the growth of children. Imbue your pupils with the desire to accept the heritage of the past and transmit it to the future not with disgrace and dishonor, but with enriched personal accomplishment.

The Alumni Association wishes you abundant success as a teacher. May God bless your services.

Sincerely yours,
CHARLES F. SEIDEL, President
General Alumni Association

president's message to the class of 1954

When great numbers of people have access to all the relevant facts and have the ability, the initiative, and the integrity to think clearly, they tend to come to similar conclusions on important issues. The reading of history makes plain that the divisive influences in society are ignorance and prejudice, not knowledge and freedom of thought. Hence education, as we know it and as we practice it in America, though designed to help each person to develop his individual capacities, is truly the great stabilizing force in our democracy. In our country a potential leader is ill-advised to follow the role of a demagogue or dictator because he is dealing with a multitude of critical citizens, not a bewildered populace looking for a fuhrer. The potential leader in any sphere must clearly identify and analyze issues and must propose soundly conceived courses of action.

From 1854 to 1954 the American kind of education helped this country to grow from ". . . the most unorganized, the most invertebrate of nations . . . into the most powerfully and efficiently organized people on the globe" according to the distinguished historian, Professor Allan Nevins. Now in 1954, as intelligent citizens of this great country, we realize that we must plan for a long period of international tension. High expenditures for defense must be considered a normal and continuing situation. A period of active military training seems to have become a part of the career of every physically qualified young man. Communism and other un-American activities must be apprehended and fought vigorously at home and abroad. These characteristics of our current social order involve contradictory values, and each one has a direct and potent effect on public education.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the American kind of education which encourages informed clear-eyed criticism is a target of fanatical persons and groups who, to serve their own ends rather than the public good, are dedicated to quick and radical changes. As beginning teachers you need to be apprehensive, analytical, and astute when such personnel attack our American system of public education.

In spite of all the attacks and criticism of our public schools, the progress made during the last century is unmistakable. Today's schools are good schools. They are better than the schools of yesterday. Solving the problems which confront them, however, will make them still better schools. The Spanish scholar Ortega y Gasset phrased nobly the wider view to which all of us are summoned by writing -- "In the thick of life's urgencies and its passions education must assert itself as a major spiritual power, higher than the press, standing for serenity in the midst of frenzy, for seriousness and the grasp of intellect in the face of frivolity and unashamed stupidity." To this great challenge all of us, as teachers, are reverently dedicated.

The trustees, the faculty, and the alumni join me in felicitations upon your graduation while at the same time we are most solicitous of your life-long loyalty to the teaching profession and to our Alma Mater.

FELLOW CLASSMATES:

We stand at the threshold of a new life. We have traveled together these past four years preparing for this momentous occasion. How well we have succeeded will soon be evident. What degree of success will be ours will depend upon our own initiative and decision. As individuals we are ready to embark on the challenging adventure of the road of life.

These halls which have echoed our foot falls and laughter will soon welcome others to take our places. So too, we must go forward and onward with eagerness and high hope in our hearts, attacking new problems. We will remember the cooperation and patience of the faculty with a keener appreciation and thankfulness for their guidance and help. For now we, too, have the same role to follow. We have chosen teaching to be our profession in some phase or other. It is now our turn to guide others, to instill our American Way of Life and to teach the meaning of the brotherhood of man.

Classmates, these four years have been memorable ones with outstanding achievements by all. We are ready to go forward to new attainments and triumphs with the strength of character, knowledge, and ability given to us by KSTC. To all of you, I wish success in your chosen profession, happiness, and the best in life for the years ahead. "Farewell."

"Twenty-Five Words or Less". . . hit the footlights on February 5, 1954 . . . first senior production staged before paying audience . . . upwards of 90 people in cast and production staff . . . musical comedy featuring satire, fantasy, and dancing galore . . . essay and donut recipe contest brought to Alice, the heroine from Dead Ox, Indiana, a trip to New York . . . New York, crossroads of the world . . . gay, colorful society . . . art museums, paleonthology departments, and the Grotto. . . country girl longed again for the simple life . . . deserted Horace, her museum intellect and a simple yet true romance . . . reunion when bone-discoverer Horace becomes "the Man Who Put Dead Ox on the Map" . . . Alice's former motorcycle lover turned to "donut" saleswoman . . . curtain closed on happy reunion and tuneful finale . . .

Musical extravaganza attributed to magnificent arrangements of Paul Seidel, efficient chorus direction of Tony Pellegrino, and choreography of Connie Zimmerman . . . orchids to Director Dave Mitchell and assistant Dave Keller for a job well done . . . orchids also to the huge cast and faculty advisers who contributed their time and effort to make this one of the most memorable of all college productions!! . . .

LEHIGH VALLEY

AS A BRAND NAME IS A SYMBOL OF FAIR PRACTICING, FAIR DEALING, HIGH QUALITY AND EXCELLENCE OF PRODUCTS.

The Lehigh Valley Dairy's $5,000,000 plant is a tribute to the 3,000 dairymen-members who believe in the sound principles of co-operation.

Pooling their resources in 1934, these farmers found they could more efficiently supply to city consumers high quality milk and milk products within the budget limits of every family in the area they serve. Starting from scratch 20 years ago, this organization today handles a sales volume of $12,000,000 a year!

Expansion over the years has been made possible by the exacting quality control carried on in the processing and marketing of milk. The plant, which houses the newest and finest equipment available for handling milk, is constantly open to the public.

Because the Lehigh Valley Dairy is owned by farmers, the owners regard the people who buy their milk and other dairy products as their primary responsibility. These farmer-owners have continually sought to give the public the purest and best tasting milk available anywhere, and at the same time make constant improvements in the quality of their milk and milk products.

the alma mater

Where stately trees are bending,
Where Nature's glories shine,
And loveliness unending
In beauty rare combine,
There rise the Kutztown towers,
And there the College stands,
The well-spring of our powers --
The shrine our love commands.

About our happy hall-ways
Our fondest memories cling,
Of days that we shall always
In joyous rapture sing:
Firm as a keystone they stand,
Round which we shared life's span.
She taught the source of all good:
Who serves God must serve man.

And we will ever love her
And live to spread her fame;
Our lives shall add new lustre
Unto her glorious name;
As guardians of her new day
Our work will ever be,
To labor so that she may
Achieve her destiny.

Clyde Francis Lytle
